Free Necklaces goes National

Several Jewelers across the United States

Giving away necklaces to jobless, and foreclosed.

Arnold's Jewelry is joining this group to give away 100 sterling silver necklaces to those who have lost their homes.

Those jewelers who have come together to give back to our communities. The people who have supported us for years and contributed to our success. In the spirit of gratitude and hope each of our US jewelers has purchased 100 sterling necklaces to give away, free to anyone who has lost their job or home.

So many unfortunate people have lost jobs or homes, can't afford to give a gift for Valentine's Day, or "just because." There are women whose spirits would be lifted by wearing a new, special necklace, but could never buy it for themselves at this time. We want to help. So we are giving away these necklaces.

Every person who loses their job or their home experiences extreme difficulty. May our gifts be a symbol for what each of us can do. May our action touch those that can give, whether of time or money, to those that are in need.
